Sallyanne Atkinson : No Job for a Woman before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised No Job for a Woman:

A good womans work is never done...By Jane CorbouldThoroughly enjoyed this enjoyed this book, I found Sally Ann's story so interesting, encouraged by her family to do anything and everything, she did very successfully. I have known the author for very many years we had similar upbringing and are almost the same age , she brought up in the city I in country Queensland with parents who believed girls and women were the property of men. A clever young person told so often. " YOU CAN'T DO THAT". I have achieved much but at considerable cost to my personal life I congratulate Sally Ann for her whole attitude to life...

A true trailblazer for her generation... Sallyanne Atkinson was the first female Lord Mayor of Brisbane, the first female senior trade commissioner to Paris and has been a leader in business and corporate life for over four decades. No Job for a Woman takes us from her wartime childhood in Sri Lanka through her early career as a journalist and TV personality into her life in politics. For the first time Sallyanne Atkinson offers a behind-the-scenes look at her dynamic and colourful life, including her involvement in three Olympics bids. A trailblazer for working mothers, Sallyanne shares the challenges and the triumphs of raising five children while forging a high-profile career. With her characteristic warmth and humour, she shows how she defied the expectations of a generation.

About the Author Born in 1942 to an Irish father and Australian mother, Sallyanne Atkinson has had a long career in politics and business.
